About the Event

The ASF Tokyo Round Table is an annual seminar program held by the Japan Securities Dealers Association in Tokyo, which provides participants from self-regulatory organizations, industry associations, and government regulators in the Asia-Pacific region with unique opportunities to exchange experiences and expertise. Since the project launched in 2006, more than 260 participants from 29 jurisdictions came to Tokyo to discuss a host of common issues for the securities industry in the Asia-Pacific region.

As a potential means to leverage the ever-growing network of past and present participants to the event, the ASF Secretariat established the Alumni Network of the ASF Tokyo Round Table in 2018.

This event is the first alumni networking event held online for past participants of the ASF Tokyo Round Table (and other interested parties!) to get back in touch with one another, as well as meet like-minded individuals of other years.

A Quick Q&A

Q: I've never been a participant to the ASF Seminars. Can I still join this event?

Yes! This event, while primarily for alumni of the seminars, is also open to potential ASF Tokyo Round Table participants– and that includes you.

Q: Is this different from the ASF AGM?

This event, unlike the Annual General Meeting, will not go through any ASF administrative matters, and is not going to be a formal setting by any means.

For ASF members, perhaps a good way to think about the event is to conceive of it as part of the networking portion of the AGMs in the past.

Q: Do I have to come prepared with anything?

Not at all! If you have a particular area of interest that appeals to you, keep that curiosity for the day of the event where you can ask participants to join in on a discussion, if you wish. We don't expect participants to be making formal presentations, and all statements made will not be construed as representations of the organizations to which you belong.

Q: As a participant, will I be joining as a representative of my organization?

No– this is more of a personal event where you can meet old friends and discuss topics that are of personal interest to you.

We are open to all people who have an interest in networking with old and new friends, so please don't hesitate to register.

The more the merrier!
